Pool complaints come to council

Problems at the new Park Valley indoor swimming pool reached a boiling point last Thursday. Ed Sherry, of Canree Facilities Consultants, appeared before Drayton Valley Town Council to hear a list of 35 complaints.

Some of the town's major concerns dealt with the small entrance, landscaping, the lifespan of the siding, snow and ice coming off the roof over the main entrance, staining tiles, main heater problems, the quality of paint in the main lobby to the cement pad in front of the pool.

According to Drayton Valley recreation director Dennis Woosley, 90 per cent of the problems on the list presented to Sherry have already been fixed.

However, three major problems are the tiles on the pool deck, the paint in the main lobby which will have to be re-done in the immediate future, and the heaving of the front cement pad. Council was told that the front doors were only opening three-quarters of the way due to the heaving. One problem could be that the pad was poured in October ... the cold time of the year. There's a possibility the cement pad in front of the pool will have to be ripped out and re-done.

On the front entrance, Sherry said, "There's no law saying I must take my shoes off. People can leave their boots in the boot racks or carry them into their lockers."

Sherry seemed to be quite surprised at the tone of the recreation director and town council over the problems at the pool.

"We are going to help. But it's difficult to go back to the contractor after the legal document has been signed," Sherry explained.

The legal document he mentioned was the acceptance of the building when the final inspection was done prior to its February opening.

Council asked Sherry to meet with the administration and iron out their problems.

Plans in motion for new curling rink

The Drayton Valley Curling Club has decided to proceed with plans to build a new six-sheet rink. The general membership gave the executive their unanimous support last Thursday night.

The new sports facility, which will be ready in two years, is expected to cost between $500,000 and $600,000.

According to curling club president Alex Salfi who has done a lot of ground work on the project, the desired location for the new facility is West Valley Park.

If the curling rink is built at West Valley Park it will have the support of the Drayton Valley Lions Club.

In addition, the new curling rink has the backing of a local group seeking a second ice facility as the building will include the provision to add an arena.

"The key is selling the property," Salfi told about 60 curlers at the club's windup social and meeting last week.

The curling club plans to approach the Town of Drayton Valley to see if they are interested in the existing site. If not, it will be offered to the provincial government who have shown interest in the past.

"We need $200,000 to get going and hopefully that will come from the sale of the property," Salfi says.

The curling club is looking at a shortfall of about $200,000 considering the sale of their existing site, the support of the Lions and agricultural groups and available grants.

"We hope to show the town that the new rink won't cost the taxpayers any money. We have to be self-sufficient," Salfi added.

"We want to work in conjunction with town council. We would like their blessing," Salfi says.

The committee looking at a new rink also looked at the possibility of building on the existing site and also at the golf course. But in the end, West Valley Park was their first choice.

In order to get permission to build at West Valley Park, the curlers will have to make some arrangements with the town.

On the subject of costs, Maurice Neal told the meeting, "An adequate facility will cost about $500,000 and a deluxe facility will cost about $600,000."

"We have to have the club's support. You can't expect a half dozen people to do it," Salfi told the curlers before a decision was made to proceed.

It is the intent of the curling club to make the new sports facility a year-round operation with curling in the winter and groups like the agricultural people and Lions making use of it in the summer. It would also be a facility where ball and rodeo functions could be held.

To raise the difference Salfi says "we'll go knocking on doors if we have to." Selling debentures was also mentioned at last week's meeting which ended another curling season in Drayton Valley.

Crews cleaning spill

Crews are busy cleaning up an oil spill 13 kilometres southwest of Drayton Valley.

The leak, from a suspected ruptured pipeline, was discovered last Thursday by employees of Pembina Resources Ltd. sent out to repair a valve in the line.

Repair operation involving a vacuum truck had removed 900 of the 1,500 barrels of oil involved in the spill as of Monday.

Clay Wickstrom, staff inspector with the Energy Resources Conservation Board in Drayton Valley, said he saw between 12 and 15 people at the spill on the weekend.

"Basically the oil is just sitting there waiting to be picked up," Wickstrom says.

While a ruptured pipeline is expected to be the cause of the spill, the exact cause won't be known until the spill is cleaned up.

Wickstrom says the oil spill doesn't threaten adjacent farm land. There is a spring-fed creek in the area but workers have that blocked off.

The ERCB spokesman also said the cleanup is slow going because of the area, which is mostly willows and small trees.

The oil spill is expected to be cleaned up by the end of the week.

Explosion damages truck

An explosion April 6 at Keep It Clean truck wash, west of M & R Trucking, damaged a truck but resulted in no injuries.

Flames broke out 3:43 p.m. when Alex Nikolaiuk and some other men were working on three 750-barrel tanks, said Cst. Jeff Smith.

"They were welding skids on the bottom of them. And when they were working on the third one, welding a pinhole, flames broke out.

"They were forcing steam into the tank but for reasons unknown, the flames and gas reacted causing the explosion," he said.

Local firemen had little difficulty extinguishing the blaze Monday.

"It blew the bottom of the tank out and the tank skidded on the ground for 10 feet until it collided with the truck.

"A small fire ensued and the fire department was called."

Health Inspector says

Water and sewer lines solutions to Poplar Ridge issue

By Phil Courterelle

Installing water and sewer transmission lines into Poplar Ridge will help eliminate sanitation problems affecting both the hamlet and Drayton Valley, the area's chief health inspector says.

Dr. Nicholas Bayliss, the medical officer of health at Alberta West Central Health Unit, said Friday the improvements designated for Poplar Ridge will relieve concerns over proper sanitation.

"As a standard policy of the health unit, we prefer any number of residences close together to have some type of system" for water and sewage, he said.

"As far as we're concerned, when a system does come into play, our concerns as a health unit should be over."

The hamlet's county representative, Councilor Henry Rondeau, agreed.

"(Poplar Ridge) has always been a headache for the health unit," he said, due to problems with raw sewage overflowing the evaporation lagoons used by two trailer courts operating in the hamlet and entering creeks that run through Drayton Valley.

"It was becoming quite a health hazard," Rondeau said.

Construction of a sewage disposal system "should get rid of the health problems," he continued, adding the water supply system is "another big step forward" for the hamlet.

The public health unit, which includes offices in Drayton Valley, has been adamant regarding the installation of proper sewer transmission lines into the hamlet, Bayliss said, but has had little clout "in making (the county) put in a proper system."

He added it was through the co-operation of the town and county, which is the governing body for Poplar Ridge, "that helped get this thing finished."

Part of the problem was Poplar Ridge was ineligible for provincial grants until last June, when it was finally designated a hamlet by the Department of Municipal Affairs. Hamlet status is the minimum required before funding can be obtained.

The town and county developed plans last fall to install water and sewer transmission lines in Grants totalling more than $2.1 million were announced April 1 by the province for the project, which could begin late this spring or early summer.

Some $726,000 will be directed towards upgrading the town's water treatment plant while another $175,000 will be used to improve the capacity of the sewage treatment plant. More than $1.25 million will be allocated for actual construction of the new transmission lines.

According to county engineer John Twach, the municipal costs for the project are "roughly" between $500,000 to $600,000, although definite figures won't be known until design plans are completed and tenders taken.

"As you finalize designs, you finalize cost estimates but at this point we're satisfied" with the grants being provided.

The county must also wait for approval from Alberta Environment and may possibly have to plan discussions with the ratepayers affected by the cost of construction.

Negotiations for health unit nurses' strike at a standstill

By Phil Courterelle

Negotiations between the United Nurses of Alberta (UNA) and the Alberta West Central Health Unit remain stalemated as nurses entered the second week of strike action Monday.

The two sides in the salary dispute have not met since the unit's 18 nurses voted in favor of strike action March 21 and at press time, no plans to resume bargaining were planned.

The 10-day old strike also affects nurses at units in Evansburg, Hinton, Grande Cache and Edmonton.

Nurses rejected a two per cent increase for 1985 and a one per cent increase for 1986 in a two year contract offer which included clauses to cut overtime pay. Previously, nurses at Alberta West Central requested a 5.8 to 7.8 per cent increase this year ($150 per month) and a further 3.4 to 4.8 per cent ($100 per month) in 1986.

Although nurses here said they would've accepted the unit's offer, they voted against it due to the overtime clauses.

That view drew sharp criticism Monday from the unit's vice-chairman who called using the overtime hours as a settlement issue "a smoke screen" by the UNA to prompt the strike action.

"There's been some real misunderstandings," Henry Rondeau, who sits on the unit's negotiating committee, said. "To my understanding, there's been no change in the hours from last year's contract."

Rondeau, who also sits as the county councillor for the area surrounding Drayton Valley, added the two sides "had no problems negotiating a contract" last year.

"The UNA has deliberately got the hours issue as a smoke screen. It wanted to go on strike to give a little more strength to other groups," he said referring to seven other health units currently on strike in the province and represented by UNA officials.

The Alberta West Central nurses, however, are negotiating separately from the other units which are seeking parity with their hospital counterparts.

The unit's medical officer of health, Dr. Nicholas Bayliss, also expressed concern regarding the overtime hours being an issue.

"If that's what they're saying, what can I say. (Salaries) are the last issue remaining to be negotiated."

While previous statements from the UNA said the overtime clauses were a "surprise", the union's executive director Simon Renout agreed Monday salaries were at the heart of matter.

Renout explained nurses had some concerns regarding the hours' clause but that it was eliminated in an "oral agreement" at the last bargaining session in March.

"Many nurses did not feel comfortable with that oral agreement...but personally, I think they (the unit) is bound to it."

Also according to Bayliss, a provincial mediator has been appointed to help settle the dispute but problems have developed with the UNA.

"We're in touch with the mediator and I gather there are some problems," he said. "The UNA are not prepared to go with the appointed mediator."

Review plan

Economic group should re-group

Drayton Valley's new economic development committee should take two steps back and start all over again.

The month-old committee has already stepped on toes and there's no telling who will feel their presence next.

When town council rubber stamped a 17-page policy paper to officially launch the committee, one got the feeling that the business community had just received some much needed backing.

In his remarks to the committee, Mayor Bob Mayhew said, "Don't go looking for business that's already struggling in Drayton Valley. If you can reduce the number of people going into the metropolitan areas, that would be a big step."

Councillor Tom McGee who heads up the committee with two members from the community replied, "The first step is to take stock of what we have and see where we can help."

In their first transactions the committee recommended to council at their March meeting to look into erecting signs directing traffic this way, develop a map and look at producing a video to use as a promotional tool. All three suggestions make good sense. The only thing is, other groups in town are working on the ideas.

If the committee had taken stock of what was being done in the community, they wouldn't be stepping on toes.

map for months. The possibility of a video or slide presentation to use as a promotional tool was first mentioned by the organizing committee for the 1986 Alberta Senior Games that will be held in Drayton Valley.

The map, recommended to council by the economic development committee, suddenly appeared on the market. The town paid $2,000 for 8,000 copies of the map, which is too small to serve any purpose and the accompanying information outdated.

To all this misfortune, it's obvious the economic development committee should stick to their policy paper.

The business committee have their share of problems that would appreciate the support of the economic people.

For starters, look at helping with a 'shop local' campaign, investigate freight rates and diesel prices and see what can be done to speed up the pulp mill.

And, if three people are not enough to make the proper decisions, the committee should be expanded. The chamber, the voice of the business community, should be represented.

Weight watchers smiling after first week

I believe it's safe to say that people in Drayton Valley take their dieting serious.

Last Wednesday, week two at Weight Watchers, people were lining up at 6:10 p.m. for the weigh-ins that didn't start until 7 p.m.

And, from what we've seen in two weigh-ins, it's obvious organizers may have to find larger quarters. Of the first 133 out last week, seven were newcomers. Add that to the 80 who turned out the first week.

THE FAT REPORT....

We're pleased to report a four-pound weight loss during the first week. Just 40 pounds to go before the end of June.

There were still a lot of smiling faces at Weight Watchers last week. But, will they be smiling tonight after going through the long holiday weekend???

Enjoyed a very relaxing evening at the recent Buck Lake talent show. I've always enjoyed meeting new people and the night at Buck Lake was certainly that.

One of the entertainers was Jim St. Germain who originally hails from my stomping grounds up in the Peace Country.

Another individual we met was Marvin Long, a freelance photographer from Winfield. Hopefully, you'll be seeing some of Long's pictures in The Western Review.

To clarify one small misprint in last week's Drayton Valley water treatment plant story, the water intake per day is 500 gallons, not 500,000 as reported.

Energy accord solution to one problem

While the recently announced energy accord between the oil-producing provinces and Ottawa is an improvement over previous programs, Albertans should be wary of becoming too excited, says Ted Byfield.

The editor and publisher of Alberta Report told about 85 Chamber of Commerce members here Wednesday the new accord will be good for Alberta and Drayton Valley, but represents a solution to only one problem between western provinces and the federal government.

The agreement, signed two weeks ago, eliminates in stages the much-contested Petroleum Gas Revenue Tax (PGRT) and allows the price of Canadian oil to rise to world levels.

"The necessity of it (the accord) and the very implications that led to it reflect a major flaw in the way our country is governed," Byfield said, "and it is a flaw that is going to be addressed by the Mulroney government."

Byfield, whose writing career spans more than 39 years, told chamber members gathered at the Westwind Motor Inn dining room the problems between the western provinces and the federal government were created at Confederation and continued throughout most of the country's growth.

"The deal" that made Canada, the outspoken editor said, referring to the British North America Act, gave provinces sovereignty over their own resources but also favored Ontario and Quebec manufacturers.

The western provinces were created and built on resources in order to feed industry in Central Canada and manufacturing-oriented industry was discouraged anywhere else.

It was "easier to ship grain east than it was to ship manufactured goods," Byfield said.

This same mentality was carried into the federal energy policies of the Trudeau government, he continued, who won the 1980 election by

"What was in the national energy program was a denial of the principles this country was based on but everyone applauded because it was so patriotic."

promising to undersell Alberta oil in Central Canada.

Former energy minister Marc Lalonde's National Energy Program was a "denial" of the BNA Act, he said.

"What was in the (NEP) was a denial of the principles this country was based on but everyone applauded because it was so patriotic."

"What we saw last week (with the new agreement) was the last chapter in this long, long story and we are invited to celebrate this new accord."

"There's no question we'll do far better than we are doing (with the new agreement) but we should be careful not to be too exuberant," Byfield warned.

By gradually eliminating the PGRT the federal government is saying, "instead of banging you on the head eight times a minute, we're going to bang you on the head only four times a minute," Byfield said.

"It's better, but we're still going to get hit on the head."

To insure the inequalities between western and central provinces do not occur further, Byfield is adamant the federal senate should be reformed to be "equal, elected and effective."

"The kind of senate we want is the kind of senate originally envisioned," he said referring to a regionally elected body similar to that in the United States or Australia.

By gradually eliminating the PGRT, the federal government is saying, "instead of hitting you on the head eight times a minute, we're going to hit you on the head only four times a minute" — Byfield

Support growing for local French-language programs

By Cecil B. Dawkins
Is French language instruction an important subject for our public schools?

At the east end of the country there has long been strong support for the French program. It is seen as an important educational advantage for employment in bilingual Canada.

Here in Drayton Valley and the west end of the country one senses a rather different situation. Fortunately, however, there is a small and growing concern. A small group of parents perceive the need for programs that can improve and extend the effectiveness of our current high school French program. In the St. Anthony Separate School, parents have given clear support for a French program and there will be an opportunity on April 24 for public school supporters to focus parental concern on this very timely issue. French in English-speaking Canada has become a leading edge of educational concern.

Meanwhile, at the provincial level, government is making all kinds of sympathetic noises, but has made no definite commitment. They encourage boards of education to meet the expectations of their constituencies and the Minister of Education urges us to be sensitive to these issues. But there is no special funding and therefore the cost of these sometimes expensive programs falls upon the backs of the local taxpayer.

No government decision on these vital questions is likely until at least one legal hurdle has been passed. The Bugnet Case, which will go before the Court of Queens Bench, may well clear the air. The case concerns the application of Section 23 of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms to Alberta's French language programs and other related legislation.

This whole question is without doubt complex: Who has the right to be educated in French? How many students must be available to make that right a requirement? Are special school boards to be permitted to come into existence in order to provide for French language schools and education?

In Drayton Valley these matters are not the immediate concern, though the answers will no doubt affect Department of Education policy and have some effect in every community in the province.

The immediate concern lies at the local level. There is evidence to suggest that French in the elementary grades has beneficial effects. Those who see French as of importance to their futures — in say the Federal Civil Service, the Armed Forces, federal politics, the RCMP and the courts, etc. — want to see good programs available. In a bilingual country some exposure to French or English is surely the birthright of every Canadian for whom it is the minority language.

The time has come, not to thrust French down people's throats, but to recognize its value and to sell the opportunity to all those who have an eye to their future in this bilingual country, and to its benefits for us as a nation.

Reader extends sympathy

Dear Editor,

Suddenly one of our dearest friends, Richy Woods, has been taken from our midst, for a more important post with the angels in heaven — only 57 years of age, but with such dedication to his job as principal of Frank Maddock High School, that all of his associates there will miss him greatly.

I shall always recall my early days in Drayton when my brother Len brought me to this paradise to take me away from the bright lights of Vancouver. (What a long wait for an opening here!) and I can well recollect the first band concert at Frank Maddock High, with Irene Russell, Rich Woods' oldest boy, who played tenor sax in those days, and was here for the funeral.

Two of us from Shangri La went to the concert and the RCMP band that played was from Regina. I believe Mr. Thatcher was bandmaster at that time and his wife, Elva, came to Shangri La to do the hairdressing — a wonderful person. Since then the town has developed magnificently. Richy Woods was still the fantastic singer and leader in most all musical and scholastic achievements at FMHS.

We shall miss you Richy and shall cherish the school motto: "Strive to Excel". Your teachers have sent us many students of hairdressing, the band Mr. Proctor, Irene Stoltz, who worked here diligently for two years, and now Michelle Brown who helps in the kitchen weekends.

I hope Richy Woods' passing will be a lesson to all of us, not only the Social Club, headed by Mabel Byers, but all the staff and guests, too numerous to mention. The flowers, sent to us by the family, were extremely colorful.

I am very proud to be a citizen of Drayton Valley and to have known Richy and his family and the board members who have done their best through the years. Carry on Ivan Vowk, Mrs. Pickup, Kathy Polak, Mrs. MacMorris, who sent up the oil painting in honor of our senior citizens, and last but not least Jim Wolff, who helped me over a few rough spots recently.

Carry on Canada. "A chain is only as strong as its weakest link." Sympathy to all the Woods family.

County seeks new industry and business

Parkland County's proposed Economic Development Committee will attempt to attract new industry and business for the entire municipality and will not concentrate on just the east or west ends, says its main supporter George Sewell.

"Increased assessment, no matter where it's from, benefits the entire county by keeping assessments down in other areas," the Division 2 Councillor said in an interview.

Sewell has proposed a $70,000 allotment for the committee in 1985 although that figure may change in the county's final budget.

Much of that allotment, Sewell said, would go towards producing promotional material, such as a slide-tape presentation, on the county, its services and rural municipalities.

Keying on such areas as tourism, coal and light manufacturing, Sewell said it is "imperative the county go out and attract more assessment" regardless of whether it's industrial or commercial in nature.

Since the provincial government has apparently chosen to help direct the petrochemical industry in other areas of the province, the county should direct its efforts towards other developments, Sewell said, possibly including computer software and trucking.

With the pulp and paper mill proposed for Drayton Valley, Sewell said there are many related services that could be incorporated in the area to complement that industry.

Commenting on the trailer park development south of the town limits, he said "it's just another type of economic development and goes along with residential development going on in Parkland County."

Although Sewell added he has heard "stories" alleging unequal treatment between the east and west ends of the county, he said council does not try and provide preferential treatment for any area.

"Since I've been on council, we've not treated one area more or less than another. Quite honestly, I've never seen that."

"I represent Division 2, but I see myself as a councillor for the whole county," he said.

Taxpayers face small levy

The rate of 1985 taxation on residential property will be less than the rate of non-residential property as the result of a bylaw passed by Parkland County council April 4.

The county's municipal secretary was authorized to levy taxes at a mill rate of 16 on residential property assessments, 17.42 mills on farmland assessment, and 21.17 mills on other assessments.

Taxpayers in the Drayton Valley hospital district will pay an additional levy of .54 mills in each case.

Volunteers needed

Probation officers have time commitment

By Carol Dietrich
Offering supervision and guidance to people on probation can be a rewarding experience. But not without a time commitment and a real desire to help, said Paul Duckett, Community Corrections Administrator.

"You need to have a concern for people and common sense."

Presently there are five active probation volunteers, but five more could be used to help with one-on-one counselling, he said.

Other volunteer areas include tutoring, employment counselling, resume writing and supervision of clients on the fine option (community service) program.

Volunteers are a benefit to offenders because they are more readily available, Duckett added.

"Sometimes volunteers can be more effective than probation officers because they can invest more time and focus on a problem." — Duckett

"With our other responsibilities, we (probation officers) may not be around when they come to see us."

"Sometimes volunteers can be more effective than probation officers because they can invest more time and focus on a problem."

"And volunteers can become as involved as their time affords and as much as their mandate and the offender allows them."

A certain amount of effort goes into matching volunteers to clients. "We don't just hand them a file."

"However, the more specific a volunteer is the more difficult it may be to find a match."

Officers 12 years and over are handled on probation.

And most probation periods run six to eight months and Duckett said a minimum time commitment of one hour per week is asked for.

Generally we look for people over 21 to be volunteers, but with the Young Offenders Act now in place, we'll look at interested people 18 and older, he said.

Paul Duckett works in his office.

Volunteers are given a maximum of two people to counsel at a time.

Though working as a volunteer can be very satisfying work, it can also be frustrating, he said.

"It can be a slow process getting results."

"Sometimes volunteers wonder if they are getting through — if they are doing any good," added Duckett.

"It's hard to gauge results."
"It can be very satisfying, depending on the people and what changes in their life."

"Finding the positives and building on them is important."

Volunteers can present a good opportunity to offenders, he said.

"Getting involved in the program affords people an opportunity to learn about the legal system and broaden their own experience."

"If we can help one individual it's worth it."

People interested in becoming probation volunteers can call the corrections office at 542-2614.

Farm program announced

The provincial government has announced a new subsidy program to help farmers with fertilizer costs.

The Farm Fertilizer Price Protection Plan, which took effect Aug. 1, 1985 and lasts until July 31, 1986, is intended to provide funds for farmers using specific fertilizers.

The $47 million program was announced April 1 by Alberta Agriculture Minister LeRoy Fjordbotten.

Applications are expected to be available from the local District Agriculturist shortly.

The program applies to fertilizers 48200, 4600, 3400, 2100, 11550 and 23230. Various rates apply to the fertilizers.

Reduction in fertilizer costs are based on $50 per tonne of actual nitrogen and $25 per tonne of actual phosphate.

Town to buy land

The Town of Drayton Valley plans to look into the cost of purchasing the Tucker quarter.

The town hopes to pick up the valuable industrial site for $2,000 per acre.

"The land can be used for anything," says town manager Manny Deol.

Originally the property was earmarked for the multi-million dollar pulp mill.

Deol says the town hopes to develop the industrial area.

The Tucker property is located along Highway 22 in the southwest corner of the town.

Crosswinds Travel receives award from Air Canada

Bill Wallace, owner of Crosswinds Travel, had a very pleasant surprise last Thursday when Kees Roetman of Air Canada presented the agency with Air Canada's Sales Achievement Award. The award is for outstanding sales with Air Canada in the year of 1984.

Mr. Wallace stated that all of the staff worked very hard to obtain this goal. He would also like to thank his clients for their support, for without them this would not have been possible.

One percent is difference in wage talks

Sixteen Leduc County school bus drivers presented a united front before trustees March 26, determined to substantiate a stand which has so far proved unacceptable during contract talks.

Both sides were amiable during the 45-minute session, although three earlier meetings between the school board negotiating team and the County of Leduc School Bus Drivers Association failed to yield an agreement.

At the onset of the Tuesday meeting, Chairman Albert Klapstein stated, "It is not our policy to negotiate in this type of arrangement."

"The association has always had a close working relationship with the school board — hopefully we will continue to do so. We were always treated with due respect because we are a part of the system," replied group president Len Schneider.

"In 1984, we were told to hold the line, which we did. But we have since found the line has not been held in other areas." — Schneider

"We urge you to reconsider the position they (the negotiating committee) have taken because in 1984 we were told to hold the line, which we did. But we have since found the line has not been held in other areas," he said, adding, "...1985 is almost a catch-up year situation. We have experienced a three to five per cent increase in our expenses."

The association represents drivers throughout the county, owning 59 of 65 buses operated by the school board. Additional drivers staffed by the school board are paid on a wage basis, confirmed Handke.

Trustees heard the two sides are only one per cent apart in reaching a settlement for 1984-85, with the school board offering a two per cent increment, and the bus drivers seeking a three per cent pay hike.

The primary point of contention relates to a school board demand to omit a contract clause currently guaranteeing the bus drivers a payment of a "basic" rate over 200 days.

County school bus drivers under contract are paid on a two-tier system, with wages split on a basic-day rate and mileage rate.

Using a 60-passenger bus for comparison, 1983 rates provided drivers with a $69.68 basic pay per day and a 97.5 per cent mileage rate per mile, school secretary-treasurer Gordon Handke said Wednesday.

A three per cent increment, using a 60-passenger bus, travelling 80 miles per day for a 200-day period, translates to about $856, he added. The school board's two per cent offer would amount to approximately $580.

"Offers have gone back and forth — proposed in different packages," Handke confirmed, noting the bus drivers' intent tabled offer calls for a $1.75 increase in the basic rate and a three per cent per mile increase in the mileage rate.

"The board is looking at the 200 days. I think it is looking at guaranteeing less," said Handke, adding a school year is never above 200 days, but rather in the area of about 189 days.

Supported by members from Lindale to New Sarepta, Schneider told trustees, "The 200 days is the only thing we have had in our policy for some 30 years or more. It's the only form of stabilizing drivers for the investment they put in."

"We are the only group working for the county who have no benefits, no health plan, and so holiday pay. We take care of ourselves on the wage we are given," he said.

Trustee Kerry Bonness, a member of the negotiating team, said: "We told them it was not so much the money deployed within the association, but we were looking at total dollars."

"When we pay our gravel truckers, if they don't run that day, they don't get paid. Why do you feel you should be paid on days you don't run?" asked Klapstein.

"We told them it was not so much the money deployed within the association but we were looking at total dollars," — trustee

Schneider quickly replied: "Do you deduct from teachers the days they are not there?"

Klapstein pointed out teachers were not paid on a 200-day basis, but rather on an annual, 12-month basis.

"You can't compare school bus drivers with truckers because they can moonlight. If we don't show up for work with you, where else are we going to work?" suggested on driver.

Bus-owning disadvantages raised by the group included mechanical breakdowns and "We don't want to talk strike, we don't talk that language at all. We just want a fair shake." — Schneider depreciation, escalating prices tagged to purchasing new buses and government imposed inspections.

Schneider reiterated that the 200-day clause provides drivers with stability needed for their investment, agreeing they "can't use the vehicles for anything else."

"I don't think the basic school year has changed that much. The 200 days are still there, but the actual number of days are relatively the same — it's always between September to June. The 200 days is an arbitrary figure," suggested deputy superintendent Jack Bland, who has worked in the system for 32 years.

"The bus drivers feel very strongly we ought not be paid less than other employees. We should be paid comparable to other employee groups," Schneider told trustees.

Bonness maintained, "The feeling of the board was that at one time the 200 days made sense. But now, it doesn't make sense. Our directive as a committee was to tell you we were not responsible for stabilizing your investment. We are willing to pay three per cent, but object to the 200 days because it doesn't make sense anymore."

"Part of the board's problem with the drivers is: are they an employee group, or are they contractors? Should we be putting the routes out to tender or running our own service?" asked Klapstein.

"We are not a union — only representatives from each area. We don't want to talk strikes, we don't talk that language at all. We just want a fair shake," stressed Schneider.

Following the meeting, the two parties agreed to continue contract negotiations Thursday, April 11.

Boxers win in local card

Kirk Urchysyn led the way for the Derriek Boxing Club Saturday with two wins during a final club card at the Rec Plex.

Fighting in the 75 A class, Urchysyn beat Elk Point's Kenny Grauman in his opening match then earned a second win in a Junior C match up against Les Wilson from Fort McMurray.

Four other Derriek boxers also won matches at the card which also featured clubs from Lloydminster and the Native Boys Boxing Club (NBBC) from Edmonton.

Carl Schmidt earned a split decision over Billy Gray from Elk Point in a 75 pound class A fight; Terry Swartz retired Tom McKercher in the 130 pound class C fight; and Shane Shergar retired Elk Point's Lyle Frybese in a 149 pound senior open match.

Fighters Urchysyn, Swartz, Rodney Tetreault and Randy McQuig will fight in the junior golden provincials this weekend.

About 36 boxers took part in a local card Saturday.

Decision on fees tonight

Swimmers looking at $50 fee hike?

The Neptune competitive swim club could be looking at $100 membership fees this season.

However, just how much the summer swim club members will have to pay won't be known until tonight's (Wednesday) Drayton Valley Recreation and Culture Board meeting.

Ray Oscar, who was re-elected president of the Neptune at their general meeting last week, presented a brief to the recreation and culture board last month asking for a break on their pool rates. But, the board tabled its decision pending further information.

The board requested the recreation department to determine what effect a reduction in the club's fees would have on revenue at the Park Valley Pool as well as its deficit.

The 10 people who turned out for the swim club meeting were told that pool fees range from $2.85 for evening practice time to $4.15 for morning and afternoon time. Both prices also cover pool time for the club's July swim meet.

Oscar told last week's meeting that he was working on a couple of proposals that he would take to the recreation board. It's hoped that those proposals will see the swimmers' membership stay close to last year's $50 cost.

Commenting on the $30 per hour pool charge Oscar said, "There's ways we can raise money. Letters have already been sent to Dome and Imperial requesting funds."

The club, which numbered 40 kids last year, is looking for a May 1 start.

The swim club will hold a registration night on Wednesday, April 24 at 7:30 p.m. in the Amoco Safety Hall.

At that time the club will have the necessary information on rates and membership fees.

Hockey winners

Mary Webb of New Norway has won the major prize in the season-long Drayton Valley Minor Hockey Association raffle.

Webb won the trip for two to Las Vegas following the draw last Thursday night.

Vikki Anderson of Drayton Valley won second prize tickets for two to an Oilers' league game next season along with dinner for two at Champs.

Guy Lovell, also of Drayton Valley won third prize in the minor hockey raffle, which was $50.

Golf expansion

Club hopes to add nine more holes

By Frank Ryan

Four years from now the Drayton Valley golf course is expected to be an 18-hole facility.

"Based on the way finances are going, four years from now we'll have 18 holes and fees won't go up that much," president Les Bannerman told 78 golfers at the club's general meeting last week.

Bannerman told the general meeting that discussions had been going on to secure some additional land from the federal government which is located in the northeast corner of the airport.

"There's a 90 per cent chance we'll get that land," Bannerman told the meeting.

Plans were also announced to build a 6,500 square foot building to house golf carts. Construction will start when weather permits.

And, Howard Vickers, the club professional last year, has signed a new three-year contract.

In his opening presentation Bannerman told the golfers how the club has grown in the past four years. Much of this is due to the opening of the new clubhouse last summer.

Membership in 1980 was 220, with that figure climbing to 550 last summer. Membership fees climbed from $20,000 to $61,000 in the same period and revenue went from $46,000 in 1980 to $192,000 last year. At the same time expenses grew to $119,000 last year from the four-year-old figure of $35,000.

The bar in the new clubhouse realized a $28,000 profit.

The golf club heads into the '85 season in the red.

Bannerman told the meeting that the club had $75,795 in the bank at the end of last season but an $88,000 loan left them with a shortfall of some $12,000. But help is on the way in the form of an expected $35,000 grant from the Town of Drayton Valley.

The meeting also approved a new fee schedule. Family memberships climb by $20 to $320 while both men's and ladies' fees increased by $10. There's no change in the green fees.

A lengthy discussion was held on leagues. Some golfers found the leagues unfair as it limited playing time during the week for those not in leagues. The meeting was told that 66 per cent of the membership played in the two men's leagues and the one ladies' night league.

The executive may have to look at adding a third night for men if the demand comes forth as indicated at the meeting.

Curling final

Hoshowski wins title hard way

Joe Hoshowski brought down the curtain on the Drayton Valley curling scene in impressive fashion last Thursday night.

In the final night of curling, Bruce Clemmer had qualified for the final with a perfect 4-0 record in round robin play and needed just a win to capture the club championship. Hoshowski advanced to the final with a 5-1 record.

Hoshowski displayed some excellent shot making as he directed the crew of Gerald Szepsey, Wayne Unterschultz and Steve Harman to win a 6-3 win and force a sudden death final.

The second game was a classic as Hoshowski continued his excellent play enroute to a 4-2 win. The teams were tied 1-1 after the fourth, but Hoshowski put the game away with two in the fifth and a steal in the sixth.

For the spectators, it was 16 days of exceptional curling featuring a draw game by Clemmer and knockout by Hoshowski's foursome.

The plant at the curling rink was shut off after the final game.

SPORTSBEAT

The Red Deer Rustlers are the Alberta Junior Hockey League champions.

The Rustlers defeated Drayton Valley's Larry Geerton and his Sherwood Park Crusaders 4-1 Sunday afternoon and 3-2 Saturday night to win the best-of-seven final 4-2 in games.

The A.J.H.L. champs are now off to Ponticent where they play the entire Alberta/B.C. series. The winner of that series will host the winner of the Manitoba/Saskatchewan series.

The key player in the Rustlers' playoff win was goaltender Glen Raeburn.

This weekend the Western Canada bantam 'A' championships will be played in Red Deer.

The NHL playoffs get underway tonight (Wednesday) with the Oilers meeting L.A. The way Glen Sather's boys have been playing, the series could go five games. If the Kings knock off the Oilers, it may not be as big a surprise as some might think.

Look for Calgary to sideline the Jets although Winnipeg is certainly one of the surprise teams this year along with Philly.

The Drayton Valley Curling Club made a major decision last Thursday night. They plan to proceed with plans for a six-sheet rink to cost between $500,000 and $600,000.

It's a project many individuals and business firms are expected to get behind.

IMPRESSIVE is the only way to describe the Drayton Valley Golf Club. President Les Bannerman and his executive have done some kind of job.

Of all the meetings I've attended in the past three months, the golfers' annual meeting last week ranks at the top of my list.

The golfers, like the curlers, are talking expansion with an eye to securing land for another nine holes. They also plan to build a structure to house the golf carts.

Howard Vickers, the golf pro at DVGC, has just signed a new three-year contract.

Vickers will be writing a golf column in The Western Review in the weeks ahead. It will be a column where other golf clubs in the area will be encouraged to make a contribution.

A couple of big meetings tonight (Wednesday). Minor hockey and the recreation board have meetings. Town council plan to meet with the recreation board before their business session.

We'd like to hear from organizers of men's baseball and fastball. If you're involved, please call me at 542-5380.

Minor hockey meeting set

The Drayton Valley Minor Hockey Association has a very important general meeting tonight (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. in the Amoco Safety Hall.

"Our major concern is to get an executive," says Doug Hill, minor hockey president for the past two seasons.

"We're holding our meeting earlier than usual because there are things for the new executive to do," Hill explains.

In the past, minor hockey held their elections in September and often missed important meetings with the Alberta Amateur Hockey Association and local meetings to discuss ice time.

Speaking on the past season Hill says, "We need more parent involvement. There's a big job to do with minor hockey in Drayton Valley."

One thing Hill would like to see is adequate washroom facilities in the Centennial Civic Arena. The minor hockey president reports that some of the visiting teams at the recent pee-wee hockey tournament complained about having to leave the dressing room and go all the way downstairs to use the toilets.

Parents and other interested individuals who have any concerns over minor hockey in Drayton Valley or would like to assist the program, are welcome to the general meeting.

Minor soccer Deadline extended

The deadline to play minor soccer in Drayton Valley has been extended to Friday of this week.

Organizers Bill Boos and Simon Kelly are extremely pleased with the 120 players who registered last Thursday night. But, because of the long holiday weekend and the fact some people were out of town, the deadline has been extended.

Late applications will be accepted at the town recreation department or call Bill Boos at 542-2942 or Simon Kelly at 542-7148 before Friday.

There is a good possibility that the minor soccer program in Drayton Valley will start May 1 but that date could be moved up, depending on the weather.

Now is a very special season in fishing quarters. Almost too late for ice-fishing but a little too early for boating or stream fishing. However, there are a few exceptions.

The Brazeau River is open all year long and offers whitefish and the occasional brown trout for the patient angler. Bass fishing seems to work best, but spoons and spinners have fished more than one Brazeau Brownie. Access is very limited and special care is required on the river due to its fluctuating nature.

Shundo Creek, a beautiful stream located close to Nordegg, offers fine early-season fishing. For trout, browns, bull-trout, brookies and rockies all flourish in the Shundo system. Fly fishermen do very well with nymphs, while panther martins seem to be the favorite of spin fishermen.

Bait also is very effective here, with worms as the main course.

Another excellent area for spring fishing is the Rocky Mountain House/Caroline area. The Clearwater River is open and producing good browns, cutthroats and dolly varden. Stauffer Creek, Raven River and various other streams in the area are all renowned for early season fishing.

Northeast of Drayton Valley has Lake Wabamun and its cooling ponds opening up early. Fishermen say the action is unbeatable for medium-sized jackfish. Try not to miss this action if you enjoy fishing for pike.

OUTDOORS

Further from home, if you are planning a trip south, try Elbow River in Calgary or Crowneast River near Pincher Creek. Both offer fine early-season fishing for rainbow trout.

I can honestly vouch for the Crowneast as I was there on a one-day fishing trip last week with Jim Cox of Drayton Valley. Bass fishermen seemed to be doing very well as Jim and I noticed several nice catches of rainbow as we made our way up the stream. We hadn't had much action with our fly rods all morning, but persistence finally paid off.

One nice hole allowed us the opportunity to catch and release nine or 10 small rainbows on our ultra-light fly gear. Jim left the Crowneast with a big smile as he had managed to catch the biggest fish of the day. But, I also left with a pretty smug look after getting the first and the most!

Some of the nicest weather we get in our area comes in April and May. Now is the time to take advantage of these spring fishing opportunities.

Next week, Colin Donovan will be taking over the column for a week to list some of the gamefish possibilities and the favorite lures and methods for sport fishing.

Norette Oilers lose in Calgary tournament

The Norette Oilers finished their 1984-85 hockey season last weekend, losing in the quarter-final round of a 32-team tournament in Calgary.

The Oilers finished the Seven Clubs Bantam Hockey Tournament with a 2-1 record against teams from across Western Canada.

The local bantam 'B' team beat a Canora, Sask. entry 3-2 in overtime in their first outing then Logan Lake, B.C. 5-4 to advance to quarter final action.

Despite a two-goal advantage heading into the third period, the Oilers lost 5-2 against the Winnipeg Stars.

"We started backing in and trying to protect the lead and that's something you don't do against a team like that," Oilers' assistant coach Alex Waldron said.

Regardless, the local entry earned the praise from several other clubs attending the tournament at Calgary's Twin Arenas.

"There were many, many comments with respect to a smaller town producing that calibre of hockey," Waldron said.

"(Some teams) had difficulty believing we were just an ordinary team" and not a representative team consisting of players from several clubs he added.

Seniors' sport, recreation meeting slated April 10

By Edith Norquay

There will be an Easter potluck supper at the Drop-In Centre on April 10 at 6 p.m. The club will supply the meat and everyone else can bring their favorite dishes to share.

There will be a meeting of the Provincial Sports, Recreation and Games for Seniors at the

Oilmen's hockey

Dome, Brandette win

Dome Petroleum and Brandette Well Servicing emerged the top teams in their respective pools last week during the final playoffs for the local Oilmen's Hockey League.

Dome dropped Andex Oil 3-0 in their opening game of the league's final round-robin series and then beat Mobil Oil 7-5 and Warden Well Service

5-2 to win the A side. On the B side, Brandette blanked Chevron 2-0 and then beat Unlimited 5-3 for the win.

Overall, Andex placed second with a 2-1 record for the playoffs followed by Warden and Mobil each with one win and two losses.

Unlimited finished 1-1 while Chevron ended up 0-2.

Drop-In Centre starting at 10 a.m. on Monday, April 15. There will be a small charge for lunch. Anyone wishing to know more about what the Senior Games are all about are welcome.

We had our annual meeting at the Drop-In Centre on March 28.

Cal Bartlett is still president, Mary Bailey is second vice-president and Curtis Fagervold is the campground cleaning arranger.

Olive Jouan and Frances Sims are Club Zone 5 representatives for the Senior Games.

Happy March birthdays to Rose Pare, Jessie Bartlett, May Fagervold and Annie Paronau.

Alice and Rob McGregor have recently returned from a trip with relatives to Hawaii. Marj Brennan and Edith Deby also holidayed in Hawaii. Bill Genick has returned from a trip to Florida where he visited his sister.

Bertha and Robert Elliot have just recently returned from visiting New Westminster, Vancouver Island and Nanaimo. They attended the 50th wedding anniversary of Bertha's brother and his wife.

Curtis and May Fagervold and Ed and Joan Stelter had a trip to Costa Rica and back to Las Vegas. They report an enjoyable trip.

Martha Klorlein has moved into the Shangri-La Lodge.

Gladys McGinn has also moved to the Shangri-La. Gladys' son Melvin and his wife Eva, have moved into Gladys' house. They also love to play cards and come to the centre to play cards often.

Next week there will only be whist on Thursday. That's just for Monday, the 15th, there will be no crib.

Chamber survey draws 43 responses

Little comment from council on parking split

Councillor Howard Olsen.

Merchants in downtown Drayton Valley appear to be split on the town's parking policy.

And, council had very little comment upon receipt of a downtown parking survey carried out by the Chamber of Commerce.

The survey, which draw 43 responses, showed that 27 were satisfied with the existing two-hour parking while 16 opposed the policy.

Twenty-eight of the merchants were in favor of some sort of parking restriction while 19 were opposed. Thirty-six of the merchants indicated that they followed an internal policy whereby their employees were required not to utilize street parking.

Some of the comments from the participating merchants said existing parking restrictions should be enforced; the median should be removed;

town parking lots and others in the downtown core should be adequately marked, while two favored parking meters.

"It makes it tough on the town when the merchants don't know what they want," Councillor Howard Olsen stated.

"It doesn't tell us an awful lot that we didn't already know," Olsen added.

Council is not planning any action on the basis of the report. It was received as information and will be dealt with by the transportation committee.

Shell looks at construction

Shell Canada is interested in building a bulk fuel station in Drayton Valley.

Town council was told last week that the municipal planning commission had viewed the proposal and two sites. Either the Amoco property or the lot behind J & A Trucking, were being considered. The proposal is still in the planning stages.

Councillor Charlie

Minor, who sits on the municipal planning commission, says they don't have any objections and the station could very well go ahead.

Husky proposes development

Husky Oil is looking at a highway commercial development in Drayton Valley.

The tentative proposal calls for the establishment of a 24-hour restaurant, repair facilities, truck washbays and overnight parking on a five-acre site where Dome Petroleum's new office will be located.

Lauers pulling for Fonyo

Three Drayton Valley residents are looking forward to meeting Steve Fonyo this weekend.

Ed and Mary Lauer, accompanied by Delbert Maine, will be taking their heavy horse teams to a pull this Sunday in Strathmore. Proceeds from the one-day event will be donated to the Canadian Cancer Society. Fonyo, who is nearing the end of his cross-Canada run, is scheduled to be in Strathmore Sunday to receive the funds.

Shopping locally makes good sense!

Sure, you work hard for your money, and you want to get your money's worth. But getting your money's worth is not all it's cracked up to be.

Besides merchandise, you're also paying for service. When you shop at a highway store and ask an employee for help, what kind of answer do you get? If it's "I don't know" or "If you don't see it, we don't have it," then you're getting no help at all! If you're tired of that kind of service...try ours. Shop locally, where the people you deal with enjoy dealing with you.

Road work

The town's pothole patrol were out in force last week filling cracks, crevices and holes with a new type of filler that's expected to last longer and "pack" better than previous mixtures. Town employee Cal Wittal shovels some of the tar-like filler from a barrel while partner Julius Shultz packs it in on 58th Avenue near St. Anthony School.

Changes for bus students

Changes are being recommended in the loading and unloading procedures at Elementary 'B' school in Drayton Valley.

At the present time students attending the elementary school get off and on their respective buses in the street, creating a traffic problem.

The town's municipal planning commission has been looking at the problem for several weeks and are recommending to the school board that buses load and unload in the junior high parking lot across the street. Safety patrols will help the children across the street.

No Parking signs will also be posted on the southeast side of 47th avenue.

Chamber of Commerce in black

The Drayton Valley and District Chamber of Commerce finished 1984 in the black with nearly $13,000 in the bank.

According to a statement of receipts and disbursements issued to members at a regular dinner meeting Wednesday, the Chamber of Commerce accumulated some $24,500 in 1984 through events such as the trade fair, beer fest and cap sales, not including a $2,000 surplus carried from 1983.

The local chamber disbursed some $13,845 for various activities and promotions leaving the organization with $12,915 in two accounts as of Dec. 31.

The chamber's biggest money maker in 1984 was the trade fair netting $5,719, followed closely by membership fees which added another $5,710 to the organization's coffers.

Dinner meetings brought in about $5,740 but according to the balance sheet, cost the chamber $5,222 last year. Other major expenditures included the chamber's road sign, $2,500 and advertising, $1,487.

Historic week for SPCA, sinking of Titanic

We are in third quarter and the fire sign of Sagittarius.

The moon is decreasing so it is time to work on projects you wish to have grow smaller with time. Diet or borrow money.

The best livestock is not born under this sign.

April 11-12 will find us in the earth sign of Capricorn as well as in fourth quarter. This is the best time to dock, dehorn and castrate animals. Animals born now should be lean and meaty.

If you have a greenhouse or sheltered spot, this is the time to move and plant roots. Plants that are planted in the dark of the moon root well.

Machinery and appliances may be bought or repaired.

April 13-15 will find us in the air sign of Aquarius. Nothing roots or grows well when planted in an air sign, so concentrate instead on tidying up and getting rid of weeds and old garden growth and insect and animal pests. Cultivate.

This is the humanitarians' sign so dock, dehorn, castrate, or inoculate animals. They may also be weaned at this time.

Good breeding stock is not born under this sign.

April 16-17 will find us in the fruitful water sign of Pisces and still with a decreasing moon.

Energy is draining out of man and beast alike and the light of the world has dimmed, so discord and dark deeds are more likely to happen. Take care.

Animals born now should make good breeding stock. Not quite as prolific as those born under Scorpio nor quite as beautiful as those born under Libra, they nevertheless should pay their way.

All escapist activities are favored under Pisces. Be extra careful if you tend to over-indulge.

Re-root houseplants or move perennial roots if the soil seems ready. This is also the best time to add manure to your garden or fields.

Which lucky week is it?

Sagittarius remains our luckiest sign as far as gambling and speculating is concerned until April 20. This week's most fortunate birthdays falling between Nov. 17 and 22 this month. The lucky number to remember is 8. Make sure it is on your bingo card or lottery ticket. When travelling stay in room number 8 if you can and entertain groups of 8.

Important days this week

April 10, 1886 the SPCA was formed and the

PROPOSED SUBDIVISION OF LAND

The Battle River Regional Planning Commission has approved the subdivision of the following lands:

N.E. 23-46-3-W5M
William & Rachel Gaydar
Box 22, Warburg, Alberta
Country Residential Parcel
RL/85/2

S.E. 3-50-2-W5M
Henry & Julia Olenberg
R.R. No. 1, Thorby, Alberta
Country Residential Parcel
RL/85/5

Section 106 of the Planning Act, RSA 1980, as amended gives the owners of adjacent land the right of appeal against this decision. Adjacent land means land that is contiguous to the parcel that is the subject of the application for subdivision approval, and includes land that would be contiguous if not for a public roadway, river or stream.

An adjacent landowner wishing to exercise the right of appeal shall serve written notice on both the applicant for subdivision, and on the Appeals Manager, Alberta Planning Board, 9th Floor, Jarvis Building, 3525 - 107th Street, Edmonton, Alberta (phone 427-4864), within 14 days of the publication of this notice, stating his/her name and address, the location of the land in question, the file number quoted above, and the reasons for the appeal.

Note that proposed land use is not sufficient grounds for appeal.

Further information may be obtained from the Director, Battle River Regional Planning Commission, 5014 - 48 Avenue, Wetaskiwin, Alberta, (phone 352-2215).

Dog problem increasing Motion defeated

Two members of the Drayton Valley Town Council want something done now about the increasing dog problem.

But comments by councillors Bill Paniec and Tom McGee to get a two-month blitz started will have to wait until later in the month. McGee's motion calling for a two-month blitz, which included the dogcatcher's hours, was defeated 4-3 last week.

Instead, the matter will be discussed at the April 16 transportation committee meeting and is expected to come back to council when they meet April 28.

McGee told council last week, "I'm getting a lot of pressure from the public."

Paniec would like to increase fees. He would also like to see patrols stepped up in town.

Junior citizen of the year

Program designed to honor Alberta's young people

Nominations are now being accepted for the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year award.

The Junior Citizen of the Year program is designed to recognize young people who go out of their way to make life better for others around them in their family, school or community.

Any young Albertan, or group of Albertans, between six and 18 years-of-age can qualify for the award.

The program is not primarily an award of heroism, or for high school scholastic achievement, or for overcoming a personal handicap. The program is designed to recognize youngsters who have done more than is ordinarily expected of their age group, to provide leadership and assistance to those around them.

The program is sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned utilities, TransAlta Utilities and Alberta Power Ltd. in co-operation with the Alberta Weekly Newspapers Association.

Nominations are evaluated in early August by a panel of AWWNA newspaper editors.

Nominations should be sent to The Western Review or your servicing utility company. The deadline for nominations is June 30.

University looking for farm placements

By Shirley Cripps, M.L.A.

The Faculty of Agriculture and Forestry at the University of Alberta is looking for farmers and agricultural businesses willing to hire agriculture students who need hands-on farming experience. The students are available for work from May 1 to Sept. 1. Federal and provincial programs may cover part of the student's wages. If you are considering hiring a student for the summer, contact Loraine Strafford, Faculty of Agriculture and Forestry, University of Alberta, Edmonton, AB, T6G 2P6, 432-4391.

A publication discussing how the new Alberta Business Corporation Act affects farm companies has been released. Farm Business Incorporation (Agdex 817-49) also outlines changes to tax regulations affecting farmers, covers estate-planning strategies, and presents possible share structures for a farm company along with sample clauses that could be used in a share structure agreement. Copies of "Farm Business Incorporation" can be obtained from Alberta Agriculture's Publications Office, 7000-113 Street, Edmonton, AB, T6H 5T6.

On Monday, March 26, Provincial Treasurer Lou Hyndman brought down the budget for 1985-86. Expenditures will increase by 4.2 per cent over last year to $10 billion. The increase is necessary to maintain the momentum of economic recovery begun last year and to provide employment assistance and job security. There will be no increases and no increases in health care premiums.

The Alberta government will be establishing microchip design and fabrication facility, a telecommunications research centre and an electronics industry information centre.

The design and fabrication of custom-made microchips is an integral part of the continued expansion of the electronics industry in Alberta. Recognizing this need and to assist the further growth of this industry, our government is committed to establishing design and fabrication facilities. The design centre will be located at the University of Calgary with the fabrication facility to be located at the University of Alberta. Both

MLA's Report
with Shirley Cripps facilities will be managed by the Alberta Microelectronics Centre.

Secondly, a telecommunications research centre will focus on two major areas: fibre optics to aid in electronic communication and computer-aided design of microelectronic products and services. Jointly funded with Bell Northern Research and the University of Alberta, the research centre will be established at Bell Northern's Edmonton facilities.

To further assist this industry to continue to develop advanced technology, an information centre will create a computerized network linked to an information bank. The bank will be accessible to Alberta electronics manufacturers and will therefore allow them the most up-to-date technical and design information available.

In order to honor Steve Ponyo and assist his cause in the battle against cancer, the minister of hospitals announced that for every dollar that Alberta government will make an equal contribution to cancer treatment or research in this province. The provincial contribution will not come from existing appropriations but it will be a special contribution which would otherwise not have been made. We will match any and all contributions.

I cannot be specific other than to say that contributions will be directed towards special cancer equipment through the boards of the Alberta

Children's Hospital and the Alberta cancer program.

His run symbolizes to us the human will to overcome physical limitations. Through people like Steve Ponyo who come along on occasion to inspire us by their courage, our faith in our fellow man is renewed and strengthened.

While the legislature is sitting, I can be reached in my Edmonton office during the week at 427-1849 (call toll free through Zenith 22859).

Town census soon to go ahead

The Town of Drayton Valley plans to take an official head count.

At a cost of $3,000

town council has authorized the administration to proceed with an official census before June 30. Although a census was not included in the budget, council feel it's important to find out what the population is as it affects their grants.

By Dorothy Domke
339-2470

Our curling windup banquet was held last weekend with a fair attendance.

Cathy Poseing of Drayton Valley won the raffle which was a VCR. Marion Krasowski won the microwave oven and Deb Wickware won the radio. The door prize went to Florence Davidson.

The art show will be held tomorrow (Thursday) in the club room starting at 7 p.m. Everyone's welcome.

Rod Shaw, an oldtimer in the Tomahawk area, passed away recently in Red Deer. Funeral services were held in Tomahawk April 6.

County makes annual offer

Local community kindergarten retains its independence

By Carol Dietrich

The Drayton Valley Community Kindergarten will continue to be a private operation.

As they have for the past three years, parents have decided to decline the Parkland County Board of Education's offer to become county-run.

The standing offer was the result of 12 private operations transferring their operating status in 1982, said Brian Clark, Early Childhood Services (ECS) director for Parkland County public schools.

"In the late 1970's and early 1980's there was pressure on the board of education to take over some private kindergarten programs that were having problems.

Parents didn't feel capable of handling the financial responsibilities, had trouble organizing or had facility problems," he said.

One year earlier, the board started two pilot programs which met with success.

"On the strength of those, they the board felt comfortable opening its doors to others."

Today there are a total of 30 kindergartens in Parkland County. Half of them are county programs, five are separate and 10 are privately operated centres.

The board annually extends its offer to all privately-run kindergartens in the county.

There is no pressure put on the kindergartens, Clark said, it is just an option for them.

"It is an assurance that there is an openness.

"An annual review is a healthy thing. There may be a change," he added.

"Every year there is a change in our executive," said local ECS co-ordinator Marlene Paulus.

"What previous parents thought was meeting the needs of the children may not agree with the ideas of the new executive.

"[Right now] there is a high degree of happiness on the part of the parents with our program."

"But down the road there may not be," she said.

"It is a parental decision. It's their kindergarten."

The actual differences between a private kindergarten and one run by the county are very small.

Grants from Alberta Education are the same and fees levied from parents are comparable, Clark said.

Their mandates are the same — to cater to the total development of the child. But there are some differences in the way they go about accomplishing that, said Paulus.

"Each kindergarten meets the needs of the community."

The inherent difference between the private and county kindergartens is the management decisions, said Clark.

What Do You Think?
THE COUNTY OF PARKLAND WANTS TO KNOW
 The County of Parkland is having a series of information meetings in the County to solicit opinions on various issues regarding subjects to be addressed in the Land Use Bylaw, presently under review. The purpose of the meetings is to obtain input on the content, format, and degree of flexibility within the bylaw. Issues that have in the past been the subject of much discussion are:
 1. Should single-wide mobile homes be allowed in subdivisions not designated for mobile homes either on a temporary basis (one year) or as second residences for parents, sons, daughter, etc?
 2. Should the new land use bylaw allow for two family dwellings (duplexes) on country residential parcels rather than separate semi-permanent second dwelling units?
 3. Should home occupations be allowed within country residential subdivisions at all, or what criteria should be used if they are to be allowed?
 4. Should industrial and country residential development be restricted to designated areas or should we allow these developments in a more dispersed manner outside designated areas?
 5. Should subdivisions in agricultural areas be more restricted or are the present policies fair and reasonable?
 The time, date and place of the meetings are listed below. The meetings will be informal and input for all County residents is encouraged and welcome.
 April 9, 1985 - 7:00 p.m. - Blueberry School

Assistance available for seniors

Time nears for making home repairs

Spring is just around the corner and thoughts of warm weather sometimes bring reminders of home repairs. People age 65 and over may find the Provincial Seniors Home Improvement Program to be of some assistance if home repairs are becoming a financial burden.

The Seniors Home Improvement Program replaced the Pioneers Repair Program in December 1982. It provides a one-time grant of up to $3,000 for a wide variety of home repairs, improvements and renovations. The grant can be applied to single family dwellings, duplexes, fourplexes, row houses, condominiums and mobile homes. It cannot be used for home furnishings except for major appliances such as stoves, refrigerators, washers, dryers, freezers, air conditioners or dishwashers.

To be eligible to receive this grant, total family income should not exceed $20,000 a year, you must own and live in your home at least nine months of the year, live in Alberta for one year prior to applying, be a resident of Canada for at least 10 years and a Canadian citizen or landed immigrant. Widows and widowers age 55-64 may also be eligible.

Information sheets offering advice on making contracts and choosing a contractor are also available.

The provincial government also has a Home Adaptation Program which provides a grant of $1,000 toward adapting a home where a member of the family uses a wheelchair. This grant is available to wheelchair users of all age groups. Homeowners, tenants or landlords can apply for the grant.

They can use these funds to improve wheelchair movement inside the living quarters or to make the home more easily accessible to the wheelchair user.

Additional information about these programs is usually available at municipal offices, banks or other information centres. Information is also available from Alberta Housing, Home Improvement Branch, 11156 - Jasper Avenue, Edmonton, T6J 3B8. Telephone: 427-5760.

Mom and dad look over homemade clothing at the Evergreen market.

Handmade items are very popular.

Variety market's middle name

By Frank Ryan
There's more to a farmers' market than meets the eye.

That certainly is the case at the Evergreen Farmers' Market held every Wednesday from noon to 3 p.m. at the Elks Hall in Drayton Valley.

If you enjoy the smell of homemade bread and cinnamon rolls to products people make ... a stroll around the farmers' market is a must.

In Drayton Valley you'll find doll puppets, Indian face pot holders, honey, sofa and chair toy boxes, doll furniture, hand painted china, homemade pies, buns and bread.

But, one of the most interesting aspects of any market is the people who show their products.

Norma Howatt of Drayton Valley is a regular at the Evergreen market. Her table displays the products of Howatt's Honey House.

"Besides people stopping to see about our product, the market is a good place to visit," she explains.

Roy Hanson of Lacombe has been coming to the Evergreen market for three years with his plant stands, cushions, doll furniture, hampers and toy boxes.

"Sales have always been good in Drayton Valley. The first time around most people just look, but 90 per cent of those eventually come back," Hanson says.

A newcomer to the market circuit is Ruth Cook. The Alder Flats oil painter, photographer and retired teacher offers customers an interesting display of hand painted china.

Phyllis Voss, also of Alder Flats, attends the market with her homemade bread, muffins, doughnuts, pies, fudge, and cinnamon buns.

One of the original members of the Evergreen market place is Bea Copley of Drayton Valley who makes pies, buns and crochet items.

"In the summer the buns go like wildfire," she remarked.

Aside from their products, which always have an interesting story of their own, the farmers' market is a place for people.

If you don't wish to make a purchase, the people there will make your trip worthwhile.

Great gift ideas are at the Evergreen Farmers' Market.

CHUTE TALK

The Wild Rose Rodeo Association, now into their sixth season, have two rodeos this month.

Their next stop is Grande Prairie April 20 and 21 and then on to Spirit River April 26-28.

The latest Wild Rose standings, including Vilna, have Lanny Schultz of Drayton Valley leading the calf roping with 80 points, which is 20 ahead of Leonard Schmidt of Barrhead.

Kirby Anderson and Dean Tuffin, both of Drayton Valley, lead the team roping with 40 points; Rick Good of Edmonton leads the saddle bronc with 60 points; Ron Solomon of Tomahawk has 60 points and first place in bareback with Boyd Solomon second with 40 points; Murry Reich of Drayton Valley and Jim Thompson of Tomahawk are tied for the bull riding lead with 60 points.

Two Drayton Valley cowboys are waging a real battle in steer wrestling. Ken Hopf has 80 points with Richard Nelson 10 points back.

Jackie Shirley of Edson leads the ladies barrel racing with 80 points; Mark Shirley of Edson is the junior barrel leader with Sheldon Sullivan of Mayrthorpe leading the junior cow riding and David Schmidt of Barrhead leading the junior steer riding.

THANKS to Vivian Schmidt of Barrhead, secretary-treasurer and statistician for sending the information along to Chute Talk.

The Foothills Cowboy Association circuit continues this week at Lethbridge for a three-day show starting Friday.

On the Labbat's pro scene, the series continues in Cloverdale, B.C. May 18-20.

Drayton Valley's Iris Tuffin will take her ladies barrel racing horse on the road this weekend for stops in Saskatoon and Lloydminster.

Dates for the pro rodeo in Red Deer's Westerner Altaplex are April 25-28.

Kinsmen make plans

The Drayton Valley Kinsmen Club are busy finalizing plans for their third annual ladies' night.

"We're anticipating another sellout for the May 15 event," says Kinsmen president Terry Drader.

Drader reports that men's night realized a profit of $5,100 which is about $4,000 short of last year's profit.

"We can't complain about the support from the community. Maybe the first men's night was such a success because it was a novelty," Drader added.

Profits from ladies' and men's night will go toward the purchase of a 15-passenger community van.

The Kinsmen are waiting for warmer weather so they can put the finishing touches on a BMX track at Lions Park.

"The track was staked out last year. I'm hoping the stakes are still there," Drader says.

Consortium course expansions await final approval

Educational opportunities offered at the Pembina Educational Consortium will be greater than before if proposed course expansions are approved.

Hopeful additions include the registered nursing assistant course, expansion of academic upgrading from part-time to full-time and broadening of the Grant MacEwan Community College business courses now offered.

Other recently added programs like the Athabasca University Bachelor of Administration degree will also continue, said co-ordinator Joe MacLellan.

The consortium is also looking to offer courses in Whitecourt, as it presently does in Thorshy and Evansburg, aside from Drayton Valley.

"Whitecourt wants the programming very badly," he said.

"The expansion plans are far from guaranteed," he added, "I can't prejudge the Department of Advanced Education."

But he is hopeful. "We have had good growth in our numbers (enrollments) in the last two years."

"Because we are in a small market, we have to be innovative and flexible. There is a fair amount of potential here."

Courses offered by the consortium this semester are varied, including propane ignition, marketing research, blowout prevention, medical terminology, Administration 232, Psychology 290 and basic English upgrading.

"For the most part we offer night courses, but there are some day courses."

"We will be running more courses during the day next year."

With available courses growing every year, space is a constant concern. "We have a safety valve — the schools," he said.

"We have had to use them for fall and winter semesters."

"Their co-operation is really appreciated."

If seed grains poor, two alternatives open to farmer

If you haven't already bought your seed grains for this coming spring you may have mislaid the boat!

Locally grown grains have shown very poor germination. Many local farmers are reporting 20 to 30 per cent germination.

If your grain is similar this leaves you with two alternatives. First, you could seed your grain at about 15 bushels an acre and hope for a good crop. (No, I'm not serious!)

The second and practical alternative is to buy certified seeds for this year. The benefits are there to justify the cost.

For example, with certified seed you know what germination is, what the real variety is, and you aren't buying the neighbor's weeds.

As for what variety to buy, well...

Feed barley
Otal - 98 days (approx.), yields equal to Conquest. Bushel weights about 50+ pounds.

Johnson - 110 days, so plant early. Responds well to fertilizer.

The D.A. Column

by Doug Walkey
542-5368

Diamond - 102 days, light weight but good overall yield.

Conquest - old favorite and reliable. 104 days. Otal is earlier and Johnson can yield 30% more.

Otis

Cascade - 115 days, good yield, moderate for greenfeed.

Calibre - 117 days, good yield, new variety.
Random - old favorite, 114 days, medium yield.
Harmon - another old favorite, good palatability, good for greenfeed, 115 days.
Foothill - greenfeed variety, excellent forage yields with fertilizers, 118 days.
Athabasca - 108 days, light yields, may shatter.

Whani

Park - later than Johnson barley, 116 days. Low to moderate yield.

Katespawa - later than Park, 120 days.

Columbus - later than Katespawa, 124 days.

Response overwhelming

Wetaskiwin pilot alcohol, drug abuse project underway

Initial response to the Wetaskiwin Care Unit, a pilot project for alcohol and drug abuse treatment, has been overwhelming says Clayton Monaghan, chairman of the board of the Wetaskiwin General Hospital.

"We have been flooded with calls for information and requests for admittance," says Monaghan, adding that the 15-bed pilot project could have been filled two times over if facilities had been available.

Initial statistics on the first two months' operation of the pilot project show 190 inquiries, an average of three per day.

The project facilities were operating at a maximum capacity within 15 days of opening the doors on Jan. 31.

A total of 42 patients had been admitted to the Care Unit by the end of the second month with 32 having been discharged and now on an ongoing post-treatment support and evaluation program.

Patients admitted to the treatment program have come from self-referral, work place referral and medical referral.

Ongoing evaluation of the project is underway to obtain data to provide accurate information on cost-effectiveness of the treatment program and its potential for reducing health care costs.

The Wetaskiwin project, Canada's first Care Unit is a unique partnership between private enterprise and the public hospital system.

A project of the Wetaskiwin General Hospital and Comprehensive Care Corporation (Canada) Ltd., the Wetaskiwin Care Unit is an in-hospital treatment program for adults suffering from the disease of alcoholism or drug abuse.

In conjunction with the treatment program, the Wetaskiwin General Hospital Care Unit operates a 24-hour counselling and referral line answered by professionals. This service offers the caller information about alcoholism and chemical dependencies, as well as assessment of treatment possibilities. The Care Unit 24-hour number is (403) 352-9217.

Fire co-op possibility studied at meeting

By LeOpal Larson

Congratulations to Tony Abbott and Linnette Johnston on their engagement. Wedding to take place Aug. 3.

John and Judy Miller, Hugh and Rhonda McLean and Harold and Eva Miller enjoyed a weekend skiing at Marmot.

Bill and Mary Richmond visited with their daughter Marion and Ray Samson at Jasper.

Sympathy is extended to the family and friends on the death of Whitman Moore March 13.

Buck Lake News

Moore was formerly of this area but was residing at Christina Lake, B.C. Larry and Priscilla Stewart and Yvonne and Neil Murray attended the funeral.

Approximately 20 people gathered at the Buck Lake Hall March 25 to discuss the findings of a committee which had looked into the possibility of a fire co-op in the area. Five directors: Jim Banack, Danny Willows, Norman Moore, Ted McLean and Morris Dunn will conduct further studies. Most of the responses seem to be positive.

Eight teams of curlers rented the curling rink March 9 for a one-day bonspiel.

Culprits sought in $290 theft case

During the early hours of April 2, 1996, person(s) unknown stole $290 in quarters from the office of "The Rig", located in the Derrick Mall. The investigator believes the person(s) responsible hid inside the building after closing time, then removed the money from the office, departing via the back door after removing the security bar. The only physical evidence found at the scene was a partial running shoe footprint.

Crime Stoppers will pay a cash reward for information leading to the arrest of any of the persons responsible for this theft. If you have information on this or any other criminal offence, call

Board upholds book prices

Student book rentals with Leduc County system will remain the same for the 1985-86 school year, trustees agreed March 28.

Textbook rentals are currently assessed at $17 for early childhood services; $25 for grades 1 to 3; $22 for grades 4 to 6; $25 for grades 7 to 9; and $1.15 a credit for grades 10 to 12.

According to school secretary-treasurer Gordon Handke, projected revenues from textbook rentals are $97,000, while the board expects $6,000 in expenditures for uncollectables.

An increase in rates was recorded last year.

Workshop planned

By Colleen Hallgren
542-5573

Mark your calendars and be sure to attend the upcoming meetings.

Getting and Keeping Volunteers' workshop, will be held at the Telford House, Leduc, April 12, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. and April 13, 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. This would be of benefit to anyone involved in community work. For more information or if you would like to car pool, give me a call.

A free energy workshop will be held April 11, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. (minimum registration 20) in the Breton hall. The aim of the workshop is to provide you with enough facts to start cutting bills immediately. For more information call 696-3636 or 542-5573.

Congratulations to Alvin and Val Stredick on the birth of their son March 27.

The Buck Creek Playground Committee is having a raffle. First prize is an Amana microwave, 20-piece set of Corelle Livingware and 17 pieces of cookware; second prize is $100. Total prize value is $1,200. Draw date will be Oct. 15, 1985. Sale of tickets will start April 18.

The next meeting is at the Buck Creek School, April 18 at 9 a.m.

with $1 increments imposed on rentals for grades 1 to 9; a five cent additional charge per credit for high school students; and a 50 cent raise in costs for early childhood services.

Board members also discussed raising rental charges for county teacherages. Trustees heard a three-bedroom home in Beaumont is currently being rented for $320 a month, a two-bedroom residence in Lindale is assessed at $270, $210 is charged for a one-bedroom; and a two-bedroom house in Buck Creek is assessed at $296.

After learning of a five per cent increase over 1983 rates, some trustees agreed rents should remain the same in light of stagnant prices on today's market.

Trustee Reg Ears suggested, "The teachers got an increase in salaries, we should increase the rental by three per cent."

$264,590 bid accepted

Buses will convert to propane fuel

The lowest bid to convert 31 school buses to propane was accepted by the board of education.

The board will pay for the cost of conversion through a propane fuel surcharge program.

The cost of conversion and the fuel used over the three-year term of the contract will be $264,590.

The closest bid from another company was $551 more but its proposal didn't include a surcharge plan for purchasing the necessary equipment to carry out the conversion.

Marv Tkachuk, superintendent of schools, said acceptance of this bid would require the board to borrow on a five-year short term capital loan.

Administration recognized it is cheaper in the long run to "buy up front" but, because borrowing would be necessary, the purchase of equipment through a surcharge plan was recommended, he said.

The third bid for conversion, including a surcharge plan, was $295,056.

Mark Chechotko, Councillor Division 5, said he opposed the plan to convert school buses to propane because the fuel is too dangerous.

Richard McCulloch of the county's transportation department assured the board, however, that many school jurisdictions have been using propane successfully for years.

The fuel is safe if handled properly, he said, and it costs half as much as gasoline.

No additional problems with starting or maintaining buses have been experienced when propane is used, McCulloch said.

The county already has the facilities for fuelling the buses.

County grant up 22 percent

The county's municipal grant this year will be up 22 percent over last year, says the municipal secretary.

Dan Konelesky says last year the county received $885,000 from the province. This year it is to receive $716,000 in unconditional grants.

The money is received in two allotments, the first of which is in June. Municipal grants go into general revenue to offset expenditures, Konelesky says. The grants aren't specifically allocated.

Pool plans made

Plans have been prepared for Drayton Valley's old outdoor swimming pool.

"We're waiting for the architect to view the plans," says recreation director Dennis Woolsey.

"Hopefully by late summer we will get a commitment from the town," Woolsey added.

Woolsey says three groups — the Historical Society and a playschool group — have applied to make use of the old pool building.

The swim tank has been filled with dirt.

The newest Cassidy; Gifford scores for MS

By Peter Meade

says Ingels. "Then his agent calls back, saying they accepted the offer."

FOUR FOR FOUR — Nineteen-year-old Ryan Cassidy, the newest member of "The Facts of Life" brood, is the fourth Cassidy brother to be a regular on a TV series. He follows in the footsteps of big brothers David ("The Partridge Family"), Shaun ("The Hardy Boys") and Patrick ("Bay City Blues").

The boys' mother, Shirley Jones also starred on "The Partridge Family."

The boys' father, the late Jack Cassidy, was on the sitcom "Me & She." Their stepfather, comedian Marty Ingels, appeared on two 1950s sitcoms, "I'm Dickens — He's Fendler" and "The Pruitts of Southampton."

Ryan Cassidy

Ryan, however, almost became the family's only series holdout. He was about to leave for Burt Reynolds' acting school in Florida when a call came from his agent about the "Facts of Life" job.

"I told Ryan to ask for an outrageous sum and go back packing his bags,"

Frank Gifford

THE GIFFER — Even for a former football star like Frank Gifford, there is a limit to how much football he can stand. As a member of ABC's "Monday Night Football" squad since 1972, Gifford endures a football schedule that lasts from the hot summer of pre-season to the Pro Bowl at the end of January. He doesn't believe that football is a year-round sport.

"I'm not really interested in the NFL," says Gifford of the "other" football league, "other than to see how (Doug) Flutie did in his debut. My football season is long enough."

Gifford would rather spend the off-season pursuing other sports assignments or guest-hosting ABC's "Good Morning, America." This week, Gifford's efforts center on the Multiple Sclerosis Dinner of Champions in New York. The former New York Giant has worked for MS since 1970.
